2006 Red Rock Terrace Cabernet Sauvignon

Luscious vanilla, spice and toasty French oak are the mainstays of this wine. The wine is complex with nuances of plums, bitter sweet chocolate, smoke and cedar. It changes with airing, (as a big wine should), and remains balanced throughout. Bold and complex with chewy tannins insures this wine will age for many years to come. Very nice finish that beckons you to come back for more. Will be best in 4 to 9 years and will lay down for 15 to 20 years. (525 cases produced)

2006 Volcanic Hill Cabernet Sauvignon

This wine echoes past vintages of mineral black-fruit, toasty French oak, cassis and smoke characters. The aromas and flavors are very fruit-forward and the wine has a sweet entry turning to plush layers of cedar, tobacco, smoke and dark-chocolate. A long and complex finish follows. Upon further airing, the wine becomes even more velvety-chocolate in nature. This wine can be laid down for years to come and will be best in 5 to 10 years or as many as 20 years. (650 cases produced.)
